

CATHERINE DILTS STONE COLD BLOODED

About Stone Cold Blooded - A Rock Shop Mystery

Morgan Iverson's reclusive survivalist neighbor is blown to bits. The police believe he stumbled into his own booby trap, but his granddaughter asks Morgan and newspaperman Kurt Willard to prove it was murder. After the explosions, mysterious white creatures make elusive appearances near the rock shop, drawing a summertime invasion of true believers hoping to prove the existence of aliens. Meanwhile, Morgan learns there may be more to her Triceratops than just the brow horn, and that finding the rest of the dinosaur may solve her neighbor's demise.

"Catherine's writing draws you into the story and keeps you turning pages right up to the satisfying ending."

~R.T. Lawton, retired federal law enforcement, and author of four series in Alfred Hitchcock Mystery Magazine

"Take a Colorado mountain community, mix in a struggling rock shop, a female amateur sleuth, two escaping donkeys, a disappearing body, add a dash of small town intrigue, sprinkle with a cast of shady suspects, and you have the ingredients for a delicious mystery: Stone Cold Dead (Rock Shop Mysteries #1) by Catherine Dilts."

~Mike Befeler, author of the Paul Jacobson Geezer-lit Mystery Series

Catherine Dilts is the author of the Rock Shop Mystery series, while her short stories appear regularly in Alfred Hitchcock Mystery Magazine. With a day job as an environmental regulatory technician, Catherine's stories often have environmental or factory-based themes. Others reflect her love of the Colorado mountains, fishing, and running. Catherine caught mountain fever after a childhood vacation in Rocky Mountain National Park. Determined to give up her flat-lander ways, she moved from Oklahoma to Colorado where she lives with her husband. In her spare time, she attempts to lure wild donkeys to her property in the mountains.
